Providing World-Class IT Solutions

ARETE contract base ranges from 1-person specialized projects to multi-year, multi-million dollar task-order initiatives involving a diversified staff of management and certified engineers.

Our qualifications span the entire systems life cycle, from requirements analysis and hardware selection and installation through systems development, maintenance, and product improvement and disposal. We support initiatives ranging from business applications development, software engineering, network engineering, systems design, to specialized trade software for complex military and commercial based systems.

Adding to its years of excellence providing the full range of service support in information management, ARETE now offers "total systems integration" solutions. In addition to designing, installing, and maintaining computerized information systems, both in the U.S. and abroad, ARETE has harnessed leading edge information technologies necessary to capture, store, retrieve, distribute and use information with peak efficiency.
