One Constant in a Sea of Change

The world is constantly changing. To some this is a challenge. To others this is an opportunity. We see it as both. Most importantly, we see it as an opportunity to serve you.

Whatever the time, place or state of the economy, one fact remains the same: People still need a place to be - to think, to create, to succeed.

In a world often connected only by time and space, the built environment remains that one constant in this sea of change.

Shaped by History Never Bound by It

At Epstein we recognize the enduring value of what we build. While technology appeared to signal the end of the brick and mortar company, we know that people will always need that place to be.

For eight decades, Epstein has provided companies throughout the world with expertise in architecture, engineering, construction, interior design, and graphic design.

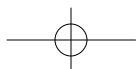

When seeking quality and innovation in the design, engineering and construction of their facilities, business leaders turn to Epstein.

A Foundation for Innovation

Since 1921, Epstein has provided companies in U.S. and throughout the world with designs to meet their businesses changing needs.

Over the last eight decades, we have evolved from the role of architect and engineer into a multifaceted facilities consultant to a myriad of industries.

We select the right people from our pool of creative, innovative talent to serve your design, engineering and construction needs. We lead with seasoned managers and create in a culture of synergy and cooperation.

We are known for our successful management and completion of large, complicated projects as well as our attention to detail on smaller, more intimate assignments.

Our Success Speaks for Itself

Epstein's success is tangible. From striking structures to strong images, Epstein's family of companies develops designs that endure.

That success has been recognized within the industry with numerous awards and beyond the industry through long-lasting relationships with companies worldwide.

We are proud of our successes and confident in our abilities to meet your challenges and needs. For facilities that will endure for you, contact us today.
