What is Metalmax & Downstream Metals Marketing?

The recent growth of multiple location metals service centers and large end users has created distribution logistics difficulties in recent years. Mini-mill growth and new product demands have changed the way metals were traditionally bought and sold. Metalmax uses today's technologies to quickly and precisely solve logistics problems for producers, distributors, and end users.

1. Processing – Most metal will have to be stored, spun-to-size, slit, sheeted, or processed in some way after they have been produced.
2. Transportation – JIT programs collide with inventory reduction programs. The use of rail and trucks strategically coordinated provides money saving results.
3. Equipment – Whether you are a manufacturer, distributor, or mill the quality and capabilities of your equipment will dictate your success.
4. Brokerage – Small or large orders traditional title transfer blind ship or fee for service
