CORPORATE PROFILE

sextant: a navigational instrument used to provide direction.

The Sextant Group is an independent, full-service planning and design firm specializing in the application and integration of digital media technologies. Drawing on decades of experience in audio, video, networking, and communications technologies, The Sextant Group creates communications spaces, systems, and services that support the present – and future – needs of clients. The Sextant Group offers consulting services in four distinct yet complementary engineering disciplines:

- Architectural acoustics, noise and vibration control
- Audiovisual/Multimedia and teleconferencing systems design and engineering
- Voice, Data, Video Telecommunications and networking design and engineering
- Strategic Technology Planning

Reflecting expertise in both facilities renovation and new design, The Sextant Group portfolio includes projects in higher education, healthcare, business and entertainment. Specializing in the creation of new learning environments, The Sextant Group has designed and implemented “smart” multimedia classrooms, digital libraries and “digital lounges,” media labs, distance learning centers, and new technology infrastructures on campuses across the country.

The Sextant Group is committed to an innovative approach to communications solutions that includes both a deep technical strength and an understanding of our clients' processes. This unique mix affords our clients more holistic and functional solutions than those that result from a purely technological perspective.

The Sextant Group - charting new courses in the digital world.
